Fri 20 & Sat 21 March 2026

@ Sydney Law School, University of Sydney

Following the success of our inaugural event in 2024, this two-day education and capacity-building workshop is back and brings together some of Australia's leading voices in clinical ethics and health law to explore the complex ethical challenges shaping contemporary health care and clinical practice.

Who should attend?

This workshop is designed for both newcomers to clinical ethics and experienced practitioners seeking to deepen their expertise, including:
Doctors • Nurses • Allied Health Professionals • Health Service Managers • Clinical Ethics Committee Members • Ethics Service Staff

Whatever your experience level, this intensive offers:

- Practical skills development in ethical reasoning and decision-making
- Real-world case discussions that reflect the dilemmas you face in practice
- Expert insights on timely and challenging topics
- Networking opportunities with ethics and law colleagues across disciplines
- Recognition – attendance certificates provided (ethics now part of mandatory CPD for many clinicians)

Engage with critical topics relevant to the clinical space

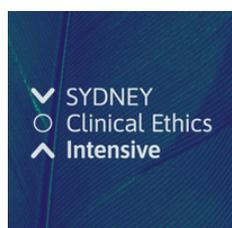

Updated foundational sessions and timely contemporary topics ensure both new and returning participants gain fresh perspectives. The 2026 Intensive two-day program includes:

- Philosophy & Ethics in Healthcare
- Clinical Ethics Reasoning & Capacity Building
- Health Law & Ethics
- Consent & Capacity
- Paediatric Ethics
- Coronial Law & Ethics
- High-Cost Therapies Decisions
- Sexual Boundary Crossing
- Social Media & Professional Speech
- Assisted Dying: Updates & Reflections

All catering included: morning tea, lunch, afternoon tea both days. Continue the conversations over the optional casual dinner on Friday evening.
